

A 10 cm thick pure gold plate is initially at 85°C. Both top and bottom boundary surfaces are exposed to an ambient gas at 15°C with a heat transfer coefficient of $h = 400 \frac{W}{m^2 \cdot ^\circ C}$. Calculate the center temperature at $t = 6$ minutes after the start of cooling.